About meet.js

We believe that it's very important, that members of local communities share their knowledge about building websites and applications In Open Web focusing on JavaScript and HTML5. We believe in selfless sharing of knowledge and experience.

That is why we created meet.js, Series front-end meet-ups organized by enthusiasts of Open Web in five Polish cities - Gdansk, Krakow, Poznan, Warsaw and Wroclaw. Since January 2011, 22 such meetings have been held.

meet.js Summit is an opportunity to connect those local communities and meet professionals from all over the country and Europe. The first edition of the conference, which was held in Poznan in 2012, brought together nearly 300 participants, and half of the speakers came from abroad. The event is free and funded solely from the proceeds of the sponsors. All presentations are conducted in English.

The best evidence of the great interest In meet.js Summit amongst the community is the fact that first 300 tickets for this year's conference were reserved In less than 4 days!
